

Hartford Republican

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1893.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

J. B. ROGERS, Editor and Proprietor.

How would Gen. Gresham do for the Democratic nominee in '96?

The knowing ones now seem to think that Cleveland's Secretary of State will be one G. R. E. Sham.

How would the Hartford Democrats like to vote for Gresham and Schurz in 1896? That's the way you're drifting.

From the present Mugwump tendency of the Democratic leader, a fit ticket in 1896 would be Gresham and Schurz.

PRESIDENT HARRISON has tendered a part of the White House to President-elect Cleveland, preparatory to the inauguration.

PREMIER GLADSTONE made the greatest effort of his life Monday in introducing his New Home Rule Bill in the English Parliament.

GRESHAM is one of the ablest of living Americans, but Cleveland shows ingratitude in choosing him in preference to a number of life-long Democrats.

THE Tribune, Cincinnati's new daily, has come already to be one of the foremost papers of the day. It is growing rapidly in public favor and seems from the start a great success.

ONE of the most welcome visitors at our exchange table is the Nashville Sunday Times. It is bright and away, and we wish for it the full measure of success its rich merit deserves.

Dr. Cole, of Owensboro, gave interesting talks at the Methodist Church Wednesday and Thursday nights, and will preach to-morrow and Sunday. Everybody is invited to come and hear him.

The Kentucky Baptist has this to say of the President: "Harrison has made a good President, and he leaves the highest government office with the love and esteem of the people of this great country."

DR. NORVIN GREEN, one of the promoters of the electric street railway scheme and a successful business man, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, died at his home in Louisville Monday.

CLEVELAND's emity for Tammany and his love for the Mugwumps is so strong that he is not content with snubbing the former, but he must appoint Gresham, in acknowledgment of his obligation to the latter set of political malcontents. Let him continue in his good work, he's creating dissension in his own ranks and doing the Republicans no harm. Go on, Grover.

It is proposed to hold a World's Humane Congress at the World's Fair, at which the following grave questions will be discussed: 1. How to abolish wars and great standing armies? 2. How to settle and stop the conflicts between capital and labor? 3. How to nip in the bud the pestilences that now sweep over the earth? 4. How to humanely educate the people of all nations for the prevention of cruelty, both to our own and the lower races?

J. C. ALVIERSON, a leading member of the M. E. Church and a tenor singer in the choir, was caught robbing the contribution boxes in Louisville last Sunday. He would place his hat, where the boxes were left after the collections were made, and on leaving he, in reaching for his hat, would get his hand in the box. Last Sunday after services a private detective, who had been detailed to watch him, caught him in the act and placed him under arrest. He acknowledged his guilt and begged for mercy. He was placed in jail.

THE SUGAR-BEET. The February number of the Cosmopolitan contains an able article from the pen of Prof. H. S. Adams on Sugar from Sunbeams in the course of which he has the following to say of the sugar-beet industry in the United States: "There are now in this country six of those plants; the locations being Alvarado, Watsonville and Chino, in California, Grand Island and Norfolk, in Nebraska, and Lehi, in Utah, the last four of which were established in 1890 and 1891. All have been able thus far to cope with the disadvantages that lie in the path of the industry in the way of solution of the agricultural problem, and the business may be said to have gained already a very strong foothold.

"But though still in its infancy in America, the manufacture of beet sugar is not a new departure for us; it is only its success that is recent. The long list of failures dates back as far as 1830, (which is about the time that it was placed on a permanent footing in France), and for nearly a half-century its pathway was strewn with wrecks."

THE PIKE. What has heretofore been considered by a majority of the people as merely a visionary scheme has within the recent past come to be looked upon by a number of our monied men as not only a feasible project, but one whose undertaking and completion are highly probable and that is the matter of having Hartford connected by a pike with some point on the N. N. & M. V. R. R. The objections usually offered by the coldwater fellows, and old fogies has been the want of suitable material out of which to construct the road; contending as has been their custom, that the shipping of rock by way of the railroad would render the cost beyond all hope of the pike's paying for itself. While we think this would be a costly way of building a road it is our opinion even then it would repay the expenditure and be of incalculable benefit to Hartford and the southern part of the county. But it is not altogether necessary that the material be shipped to us. We have it near at hand. Immense beds of limestone are found in the hills up Rough River besides an inexhaustible supply in the Ben's Lick Hill below town, two or three miles. This, while somewhat removed from either of the probable lines, is nearly opposite the half way place and would be a convenient point from which to haul, as the road to the line would be quite level. It is impossible to accurately estimate the benefits such a road would bestow upon the town. It would increase travel; it would widen the range of our enterprising merchants; it would lower freights; it would give us prominence, it would enhance the value of property, and assist in every way the development of a prosperous country. Nor are the benefits to be derived by Hartford alone. The point reached on the railroad would secure an impetus, the land along the line of the road, even beyond the railroad, would be enhanced in value; it would insure an easier and quicker route to the county seat, and give to the farmers and trading public generally over the southern part of the county access to our market.

An Interesting Letter From Madisonburg, Ky., Feb. 14. Misses Lillie Scott and Mattie Adkisson returned last week from a visit to Miss Lucy Frank, of Bewleyville. W. V. Bowmer was here from Cloverport last Sunday. J. A. Price, who taught the colored school at this place, is now at Nashville attending the Central Tennessee College. G. P. Miller, who had been sick of typhoid fever, died on the 6th of this month. He was one of the firm of the Hook, Miller & Co., which owns and operates the Globe Flouring Mill at this place. He was married several years ago to Miss Sally Hook. He leaves one child, Ruth. His death will be a loss to the business portion of the community.

Hon. D. H. Severs was at home Sunday from Frankfort. Weed S. Chelt, Prosecuting Attorney for this Judicial District, arrived here last Saturday to be present at Circuit Court.

We note with a deep sense of regret that Col. J. S. R. Wedding is forced to resort frequently to the Sulphur Springs. Presumably, of course, that it is ill health that takes him there. It is to be hoped that the medical qualities of the water of that place will soon restore him to his wonted health and vigor.

Rev. W. B. Sneed preached Sunday morning and evening to a large congregation at the M. E. Church. In the afternoon he preached at the colored M. E. Church.

Messrs. Morris Eskridge and V. G. Babbage were at Stevensport last week engaged in taking depositions. Miss Irene Board, who had charge of the Primary Department of the Stevensport school, returned home last week, the school having been completed. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Stiles.

The docket of the February term of the Circuit Court at this place is very large. There are 62 appearances on the civil docket. The criminal docket is still larger. This may speak well for the morals of our county. Although the gentlemen of green bag proclivities are generally a jovial fraternity, still the existence of such facts as these are depressing to the legal mind. With nothing to do, lawyers, soon get down in the mouth. They "dwindle, peak and pine."

And metaphorically speaking, "go toiling laboriously through seas of encumbering mud," as it were.

In a portion of a column in your paper entitled, "Do you know," it is broadly stated, "That Hartford is more pretty girls than any other town of its size in the State." Now, this is a heavy slam upon the other towns of the State. We opine, however, that the other towns of the State will be able to stand it without losing their equanimity.

With hen-eggs selling at twenty-five cents a dozen; with pork getting dangerously near ten cents per pound; with the ladies upon the point of dashing pell-mell into hoop-shirts, and with Grover Cleveland going into the Presidential Chair, it might occur to the thoughtful mind that there is a troublous times ahead. All minds may rest at ease, however, upon the assurance of our friends, the enemy, that when the Democratic party clutches the reins of government, the millenium, or something equivalent thereto, will begin to dawn. For which let us all pray.

In glancing over the "Town Tattler's" column in your last issue, we discover that some lone man, who signs his name "Bachelor," has aired himself by rushing into print. He complains that Bachelors are subjected in your paper to thrusts, etc. Which fact is hard upon the paper. We find a sentence in his article, which has the following highly interesting beginning: "Because I do not care to marry," etc., etc. There are two classes of men. First, those who wouldn't marry if they could. Second, those who couldn't marry if they would. After reading "Bachelor's" little piece we received a faint impression that "Bachelor" belongs to the latter class. Now, "Bachelor" is kind enough to inform the world as to why he does not wish to marry. We are loath to believe his reasons, however. Our experience in life, which in justice to "Bachelor," we must say is limited, has taught us that whenever a man goes to making as much racket over matrimony as has "Bachelor," that he wants to marry so bad as to cry out continually from the very depth of his heart, "Anything, O Lord, no matter how small."

HEFLIN. The growing village that bears the above name is situated midway between Hartford and Livermore in one of the most fertile localities of Ohio county. The future town is, comparatively, in its infancy, but is already characterized by the sterling activity of its business occupants. Some of the most important factors of the place are the dry goods-grocery establishment, controlled by the Heflin Bros., the well equipped blacksmith-shop, in charge of J. N. Ford, "iron artist," of Centertown, and the new acquisition, the grist mill. The coming dry goods, saw mill and railroad will make this, truly, a business center. While there is a splendid opening in our town for almost any enterprise, it could not support a newspaper, for times are so very quiet that even a reporter for the REPUBLICAN can seldom ever find anything to write about.

El Chinn is building a house here which he will soon occupy. Dice Smith, of Newville, spent a few days with us this week.

Mrs. Taylor Baird, who has been sick for some time, has about recovered. Mr. Beam, of near Owensboro, spent Sunday night in this vicinity. Quite a number of our friends attended Quarterly Meeting at Point Pleasant Sunday. Mr. McAWBER.

School District No. 3. The pupils whose names are given below have attended school regularly during the past five months: Ora Duke, Julia Hines, Lonnie Wimsatt, Willie Wimsatt, Ernest Duke, Almond Duke and Hardin Tweedell. A. R. REYNOLDS Teacher.

SELECT. There is a great deal of sickness in this neighborhood. Miss Etta James, of this place, will attend the Beaver Dam high school, this spring.

Messrs. W. W. and E. M. Royal, of Fordville, attended the sale of Mrs. Susan Daugherty last Saturday.

Miss Mary Mothershead, of this place, will attend school at Madisonville this spring.

Birch Shields, of Cromwell, visited H. C. Royal Sunday A.

In Memory of Lura Parks, who died of typhoid fever, Feb. 1st, 1893, daughter of Peter T. Parks; aged nine years and a few months. Rev. J. A. Bennett conducted funeral services, after which she was laid to rest in the Buda Cemetery. When we look upon the grief-stricken brothers and sister; upon father, who idolized her, we think of the vacant seat very dear to Lura will no more fill in Sunday School, we turn away in great sorrow and ask, why one so young could not have been spared a while longer—but remember you have another golden link to bind you closer to your eternal home.

She has left her earthly home, A home by loved ones given— Bid adieu to friends below, To meet again in heaven.

REDA. Feb. 14—Rev. E. E. Pate filled his regular appointment at Mr. Hermon Church Sunday.

Dudley Chapman, of St. Louis, Mo., visited relatives in this community last week. Dr. McCormick made a trip to Owensboro last week.

John H. Barnes and Mrs. Eliza Dawson were quietly married at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Lea Hoover, Sunday evening by Rev. J. A. Bennett. May roses ever adorn their pathway.

Fielden Bennett has typhoid fever. Little Carrie Her, who has been sick for some time, is improving.

Miss Clara Ward has returned home from Owensboro, where she has been visiting for some time.

Prof. S. C. Stevens, who has been visiting his pupils, bade them adieu Monday. Rumor says there will be another wedding in the near future. BROWN EYES.

DO YOU KNOW

Yoursell, or anybody else? That the Sunday Schools are on a boom? That the fourth of July comes on Tuesday?

That he lives longest who does the most good? That inauguration day comes on Saturday?

That Beaver Dam has a well fed blind tiger? That H. P. Taylor has the nicest law office in town?

That it is best to have but very few intimate friends? That Capt. Cox is proud of his button-hole bouquet?

That an open mouth is a sure sign of an empty head? That Bacchus, as well as death, loves a shining mark?

The importance of attending strictly to your own business? That Fred Barnet looks like Editor Pulitzer, of New York?

That little Miss Isabelle Fair has a thoroughbred Newfoundland? That "Green Goods" Wallace, is guilting another crowd of suckers?

Who or what L. R. Barnett looks like with his moustache shaved off? That each girls heart will flutter tonight as her favorite comes upon the rostrum?

That Jo. Mulhattan is driving a delivery wagon in Spokane, Washington? How you would feel to see your best girl perambulating the streets in hoop-skirts?

That there are a lot of men who start for heaven too late to get out of quarantine? That your best girl don't tell the other fellow the same sweet things that she tells you?

That a Prize fighter generally gives bigger blows with his mouth than he does with his fist? That out of nine men engaged in the newspaper business here, only one was raised in Hartford?

That Messrs. B. D. Ringo and M. L. Henrity have purchased the vacant lot by the bank? That a certain young man in Hartford sent six cards in succession and got left on all of them?

That the R. E. C's will entertain the public, as only they can, within the next six weeks? That lost time can never be found?

That one true friend is worth a multitude of flatterers? That if Bat Ball, Will Moore and Jim Sanderfur don't hustle the laundry business, it isn't hustled?

That L. R. Barnett came near breaking up General Ex. when he entered the room Monday morning? That happiness is a good deal like money, a great many people who have it coming to them are cheated out of it?

That a long face in Church and a short measure in business, are both things that never help the cause of God? That you can get the first breath of spring by calling at the Bazaar and seeing Miss Sara Collins' beautiful flowers?

That Shelby Taylor, of Beaver Dam, looks very much like Col. Bob Ingersoll, only Shelby isn't bald-headed?

That Wayne Griffin grows so fast that his mamma has to sew an inch on the length of his pants every Saturday night?

That the young man who dislikes work and is always hustling around to "find a soft place," can generally find it under his hat?

That the flowers you have for others should be strewn along their paths while living instead of being kept to decorate their graves with when they are dead?

Sunday Schools. METHODIST. Opening hymn, No. 857—"Whiter Than Snow." Prayer by Superintendent.

Rev. G. B. McDonald, who is taking a winter vacation on account of his health, will return to the care of the church in April or May.

As quick as a flash! It cures ALL PAIN immediately—Dr. Pepp's Golden Relief. It cures corns and felons, and it also cures rheumatism and consumption, and the trouble is not to get the cure, for they follow it as sure as the day follows night—it is to get it without exciting derangement. And it is not to be wondered at, for there is a wide class between "a corn" and a "pulmonary consumption." Still it is true and Dr. Pepp has got something to make "the people" know it. It is Golden Relief "cure-all." Well, not exactly. It is known to cure one disease. It is a veritable specific in it. That disease is INFLAMMATION. It cures it wherever found! Many diseases have inflammation for their base. The list is long. It includes corns and consumption, rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and many others. It cures them all in 10 to 20 minutes. Never disappoints. Money refunded if satisfaction not given. Take a bottle today.

You will GET good treatment and your horse a FULL feed and curving WHEN he needs it and not be IN a hurry to leave the good old TOWN till some time in NEXT year if you have him fed MONDAY at our stable. CASEBIE & BERTON.
